COLLYER, March 24, 1886.

Building.

First flower.

Blue grass green.

Services last Sunday.

An unusual event Tuesday.

Two misty mornings last week.

Corn chop, bran and hay at Wheeler

Bros.

E. H. Phillippi and family arrived Tuesday evening.

Mr. Burnett of the Buffalo Park Pl-owner, visited Collyer on Tuesday.

Prairie fires have raged in all directions this week, but no serious damage is reported.

Wheeler Bros. are looking for a stock of men's fine and plow shoes, and ladies' slippers.

Persons in this locality desiring to sell or buy anything, should advertise in the CRAWINGS.

Our community is suffering somewhat from sore throat, though of an apparently mild form, yet painful.

George Blackwell will exhibit a number of colts of different ages, at Collyer, Saturday, April 10th.

Carl Nof, a resident near Castle Rock, is expecting the arrival of his family

Wednesday evening.

A petition was limitedly circulated last week, asking to have Mr. Smith—brother-in-law of T. K. Phillips—appointed a notary.

Sunday, April 4th, Rev. J. C. Elliott will again preach in Collyer, both morning and evening, and every alternate Sabbath after.

Sunday's east bound train left the first refrigerator car ever billed for this station.

It contained a car load of potatoes for one of our merchants.

Jas. Sloey, musician and merchant, of Buffalo Park, is enjoying a few days in Collyer. Our town has strong attractions for Mr. S. these days.

Collyer town school will open for the spring term next Monday, March 29th.

F. G. Bower has been re-engaged as teacher, at $35 a month.

Wallows, at this season, are vast plates of green, ornamenting and contrasting with the great prairie table spread with its somber robe of light brown.

H. L. Sheets was busy last week at Mr.

Petzlaff's erecting a house and barn.

Mr. Petzlaff's homestead is southeast of town, near that of Mrs. Limer.

Judging by the numerous heavily loaded wagons leaving town, especially in a southeasterly direction, our merchants must be doing a thriving business.

Charles F. Norton, of Beardstown, Ill., father-in-law of E. H. Phillips, arrived on Saturday. His car of stock and household goods came in Friday night.

Members of the Grand Army Post No.

107, attention! The next regular meeting will be held in Collyer, Saturday afternoon, April 3rd, and a good attendance is desired.

The earliest prairie flower can now be found by diligent searching. It resembles a miniature verbena, and is of such a delicate blue that it is not easily distinguished among the grass.

The health of our friend and old settler,

D. G. Carlton, does not improve, and it is expected he will soon start for the east.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

Mr. Sayres, recently of southwestern Iowa, but now a Trego citizen, is putting up a comfortable little home on his place, a few miles to the east of Collyer. His wife is expected here about May 1st.

C. F. Malms expects to reopen his blacksmith shop in the building begun on Monday on Anisio avenue, a little west of the mill. Mr. Lord is doing the carpent work, and the frame is already up.

Mr. Hitchcock and friends have removed the most of their four carloads of goods to their homes in Lane county.

When starting south on their second trip their five wagons were drawn by sixteen horses.

For SALE.—One black mare pony, extra choice chickens, a rectangular churn and lever butter worker and a few household goods. Inquire of W. H. Burnham, two miles north of Collyer, or Wheeler Bros., Collyer.

Wm. Bower, of Fostoria, Ohio, reached Collyer last week to seek a permanent residence here. He is a brother of our teacher, F. G. Bower, and their meeting so far from home, after five years' separation, was a pleasant one.

Chas. F. St. John, of West Plains,

Kansas, reached town last week, and on Friday secured a party to plow the necessary acres on his claim, half a mile east of town, thereby depriving certain parties of some contest fun.

Mr. Ingraham last week purchased the quarter section owned by the late John Burns, sr. The land is near Big Creek, and the situation affords good schooling privileges, as it is but a short distance from the school house of district No. 24.

Attention is particularly called to the private sale of household goods by H. D.

Chase, advertised in this column. The Cawings can testify to the extra quality of these goods, and the low price at which they are offered. A rare chance to obtain necessaries.

PRIVATE SALE.—Furniture, range, heating stove, gasoline stove, oil stove, carpets, household utensils, dishes, etc., for sale at my house, one-half mile north of Collyer. Prices very reasonable.

Terms cash. Every article in good condition. H. D. CHASE.

The ladies of Collyer Corps feel quite elated over the election of the president, Mrs. Angeline Martin, as an alternate delegate to the National Convention to be held at San Francisco next August.

As the corps has never felt able to send a delegate to represent them at the state conventions, the election is, therefore, quite a compliment to Mrs. Martin's executive ability.

Wheeler Bros. are closing out their bunch laces at 5 cents per bunch.

Phillips & Smith are authority for the statement that our town is soon to be supplied with a dressmaking and millinery establishment. Mrs. A. D. Morgan, of Delphos, Kansas, will put up a building, 16x24 feet, north of the Post and Corps hall, to which she will bring a $600 stock of goods in a few weeks. Now the head of the family can commence to brighten up his memory on the prices of bonnets when he was in "civilization."

The spring term of Collyer school, district No. 24, will commence on Monday, March 29th, and will be taught by Mr. McCullum, of Ogallah.

Calum comes well recommended by the school superintendent, and we trust he will teach a good school. As several families are moving into the southeastern portion of the district, we hope for an addition to the number of scholars. C. A.

Sperry, G. W. Hargitt, Mrs. Ann Lorr-mer, school directors.

A number of the W. R. C. members were evidently prevented from attending the monthly meeting last Saturday, but there being a quorum, considerable business was transacted. B. O. Richards kindly loaned the use of one of his rooms to the women, as the usual place of meeting is a cheerless, cold house, sadly in need of repairs. L. A. Fisher, being the lowest bidder on the building material needed for the new hall, the joint post and corps committee accepted his bid, and secured the services of J. C. Martin as head carpenter. The foundation was completed by Messrs. Burns and Brown on Monday, the weather having interrupted the work, and Mr. Martin began his labors the following day.

You will find Wheeler Bros' fine meal is fresh, and of a very nice quality.

Rev. J. C. Elliott began religious services, as announced, at the school house last Sunday. The morning attendance was quite small, and as some of the congregation did not arrive until the sermon was over, Mr. Elliott supplemented his extemporaneous remarks upon "Bring ye all the tithes into the store house," Malachi 3:10, by reading, upon vote of the au-diocese, a sermon by Rev. Emory J.

Haynes, pastor of Tremont Temple church

Boston, Mass., upon the subject "More about weariness and resting." Rev. Elliott interpreted "tithes" as meaning praise, thanksgiving, labor and love, as well as every other good thing we may possess. A "light in the window" at 7 p.

m. proclaimed that evening services were being held, and a goodly number were in attendance and enjoyed a discourse upon "The wise and foolish virgins."

Call on Wheeler Bros. when you want a first class article of chop.

An unprecedented event in the history of Collyer was the two funeral processions which wended their way to the Catholic cemetery on Tuesday. The first came from Buffalo Park, bringing the remains of a young child of Peter McFarland, and deposited its precious burden about 11 o'clock a. m. The other did not arrive until late in the afternoon, and brought for interment the corpse of a ten year old boy, son of a Bohemian living northwest from Buffalo Park, whose name was not learned. Earlier in the day than either of the above came a number of persons from the Saline district with all that remained of their friend Mrs. Burt, who, with husband and five children, came west last fall from Iowa, in search of health. The body was taken back to Iowa for interment, accompanied by the mourning husband and friends.
